Dear Students (copy to all faculty):

In an abundance of communications caution, I am confirming the news that the LSU campus is OPEN tomorrow for all activities and classes—and that includes the Law Center. So whether your classes are in person or at distance, we will continue moving along tomorrow. Stay tuned tomorrow afternoon for what to expect for your Wednesday, though! Recall that our calendar operates separately from the “main campus” calendar, so although our physical buildings close along with the rest of the campus, you will want to also pay attention to email when it comes to classes and details of the calendar at the Law Center.

Earlier today, you should have received an email message similar to the one shown below; if you have signed up for text alerts, you would have received a brief text message as well. If you are not signed up for text alerts and would like to receive information that way, see the last line of the email forwarded below. This is how you will receive the fastest information on the physical closure of campus. I highly recommend the text alerts—they cover not only weather alerts but other types of emergencies as well.

Messages this week (and in general) about the Law Center and classes will come by email and will be posted to the Law Center website. In addition, those of you who like Twitter can also follow the Law Center @LSULawCenter.

See you tomorrow—and “we’ll see” about Wednesday,

Dean Lockridge

LSU will reopen tomorrow, Tuesday, Aug. 25. All classes and activities will resume as scheduled on Tuesday morning. Students and employees will be required to begin using the TIGER Check daily symptom checker on Tuesday.

The University Laboratory School will also reopen on Tuesday. Families with children at the LSU Early Childhood Education Laboratory Preschool will hear directly from the preschool in the coming hours as to their decision about tomorrow.

The Rapid COVID-19 Testing Centers on campus, conducted by Relief Telemed, will also be open on Tuesday. Visit lsu.edu/roadmap/health/testing.php for more information.

The LSU EOC continues to monitor weather conditions related to Tropical Storm Marco and Tropical Storm Laura. A decision about Wednesday will be announced on Tuesday at approximately 2 p.m. Updates will be posted to lsu.edu and LSU's official social media channels. The LSU community should also check their LSU email accounts for any messages, and watch for any emergency text messages the university may send.

LSU students, faculty and staff who have not yet signed up for emergency text messages should do so as soon as possible at <http://my.lsu.edu> by clicking on "Personal Preferences" and "Emergency Contacts."
